

Three businesses, one group.

A simple, honest plan for your three websites: Cobra Concrete, CDH Digger Hire and South London Bamboo Removal.

July 2026 · Nu Media Group

THE THREE SITES TODAY

An honest look at each one

All three already bring in work. Cobra is in good shape and stays as it is. The other two, CDH and South London Bamboo, are where the real work is.

Cobra ConcreteIn good shape

Your flagship, kept up to date. It stays as it is, and sets the standard we bring the other two up to.

CDH Digger HireNeeds work

Every service piled onto one site, so nothing stands out. Thin on detail, a couple of typos, and no clear way to ask for a quote.

South London BambooNeeds the most

Barely more than a single page. Little on how the job is done or the proof behind it, and the survey offer gets lost.

The plan brings all three up to date, up to speed and onto one system, with CDH and Bamboo getting the most work.

BEFORE YOU DECIDE

Why not just put it all on one website?

It is the obvious idea, and it is the one to be careful with. Someone looking for bamboo removal is not looking for a concrete firm. Each business needs to look like the specialist it is, or the job goes to someone who does.

THE EASY OPTIONOne website for everything

Put all three on one site. Simpler to picture, and it sounds cheaper up front.

THE CATCHYou would lose work

Two of the three would slide down Google, so the phone rings less. You would be paying to lose work you already get.

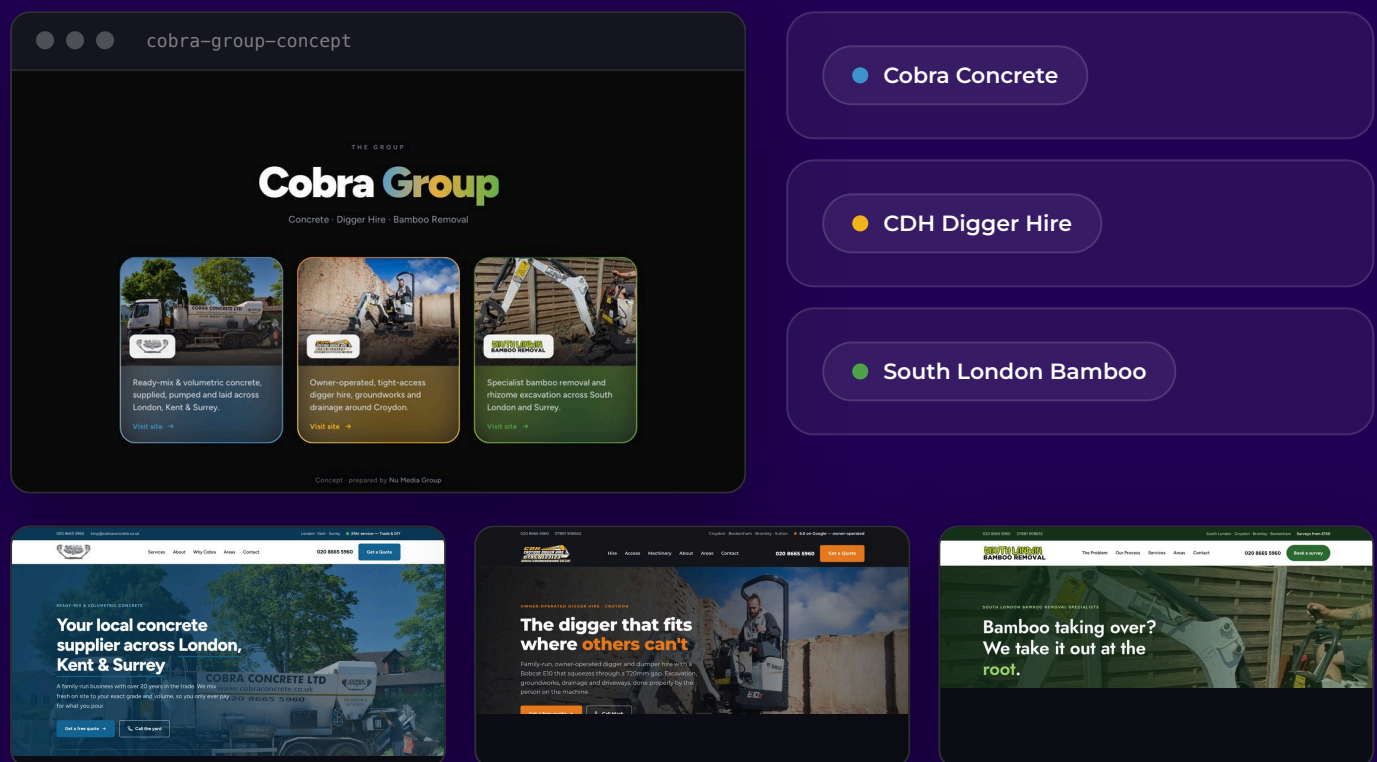

Someone typing "bamboo removal south London" wants a bamboo firm, not a concrete company's list of services. The focused site wins the job. The all-in-one does not.

Better to keep three separate websites, and run them all from one place behind the scenes.

WHAT WE HAVE BUILT

Three new websites, plus one simple front page

All three sites rebuilt, brought up to date and up to speed, built for the latest Google, and running on one system behind the scenes. Real logos, photos and reviews, plus a simple front page that links them. Open every one right now.

HAVE A LOOK

numediagroup.github.io/cobra-group-concept

The front page, then click through to Cobra, CDH and South London Bamboo.

GETTING FOUND ON GOOGLE

Built the way Google works now

Google has changed, and it keeps changing. The latest updates lean on local relevance and real proof, the site that clearly serves your areas and does one job well. These sites are built to give Google that, and to keep up as it keeps moving.

01

Real proof, not waffle

Photos of real jobs, reviews and your kit, the things Google trusts now, not thin sales copy.

02

Ready for Google's AI answers

Set out clearly, so the new AI answers at the top of Google can pull straight from your sites.

03

Built around your local areas

Pages for the towns you cover, so you show up when someone nearby searches, which is what Google leans on now.

04

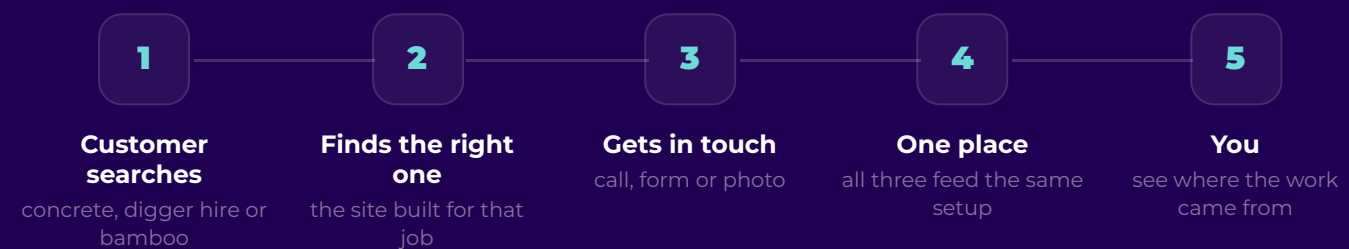

Moved over safely

Old pages pointed to the new ones properly, so the spots you already have on Google do not drop.

ONE TEAM, THREE SITES

Three separate websites, one system behind them

Customers see three separate specialists, and the work comes in through three separate routes. It all lands in one place, so the team can measure exactly which site and which area brought it in.

One place to run it all

Same setup, hosting and updates across the three sites, so it is no more hassle than running one.

See where the work comes from

Across all three: which site, which area, and whether it turned into a paid job.

HOW WE WOULD DO IT

A clear, step-by-step plan

Nothing rushed, and nothing that risks the work you already get. Protect first, then build, then grow.

- 1 Check what you have
Get access to the sites and accounts, and see what each one already brings in, before we change a thing.
- 2 Agree the designs
Sign off the three sites and the front page you have already seen, and plan how every old page moves across.
- 3 Build and move over
Build the new sites, set it all up in one place, and move over carefully so nothing drops off Google.
- 4 Keep it growing
Ongoing work on your content, Google and reviews, with a simple monthly update so the calls keep coming.

Keep the three sites. Run them as one.

Do not lump three good businesses onto one website and lose two of them on Google. Keep them separate, run them from one place, and build them properly. It is money spent, but it protects the work you already get and is built to bring in more.

NEXT STEP

Agree a first phase and we get started: check what you have, protect it, and finalise the three sites.